

03

NOV

10:07 UTC

Iran Tactical: March to commemorate ‘National Day of Struggle Against Global Arrogance’ to be held in Tehran during morning hours on November 4; maintain heightened vigilance

Current Situation:

- According to state-affiliated media, the Islamic Development Coordination Council announced that a march will be held in Tehran from 09:00 (local time) on November 4 on occasion of the “National Day of Struggle Against Global Arrogance.”
- This date marks the anniversary of the November 4, 1979, storming of the US Embassy in Tehran by Iranian students and the ensuing hostage crisis.
- The march will proceed from Palestine Square to the former US Embassy on Taleqani Street.
- Similar marches and commemorative events will be held throughout the country.

Source: IRNA

Recommendations:

1. Those operating or residing in Tehran during the morning hours on November 4 are advised to maintain heightened vigilance and allot for travel disruptions due to the slated march.
2. Remain cognizant of similar events planned nationwide on November 4.
3. Western nationals are advised to maintain a low profile in public and avoid revealing their identities and political affiliations, given the anti-US and Western nature of the event.

